COUNTIES MUST PAY BOUNTIES

Even though they Have no Assurance of being Reimbursed by the State. Hunters and Trappers May now Feel Happy.

Justices in Adams county who have advanced scalp bounties and have been unable to collect owing to the action of the County Commissioners who, with others in the state, stopped the payment of these sums when the funds appropriated were exhausted, are jubilant over the opinion of the deputy attorney general. Hunters, too, are rejoicing for now more they can begin the slaying of weasels, hawks and the like and the unfortunate income thus secured can be continued.

Every county in the state is legally liable for the payment of bounties on noxious animals and birds whenever such claims are presented, but no way exists for the counties to be reimbursed by the state before the next session of the legislature relieves the situation.

The present status of the bounty question, which has engrossed much attention over the state for years, is set forth to Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, chief game protector, in an opinion by Jesse E. Baldy, Commonwealth attorney general. The fault for the present situation, the first of its kind to exist in the state, appears to lie with the last legislature.

Heretofore, counties have been in the habit of not actually paying bounties but the legislature has made a bounty appropriation and hunters would present their bounty claims until the proper time to press them.

Under the Cunningham opinion, counties must pay claims which are proved and valid for the money in the legislature does not give it to them.

The last legislature provided that hunters' licenses fees should be available for bounties, but failed to appropriate them. At the same time it provided that county commissioners and treasurers must pay bounties when claims are properly presented.

WANT BOUNTY MONEY

Many Apply for Funds. County Commissioners Are Popular Ones.

The county commissioners are receiving numerous applications for counties on the scalps of noxious animals and birds, as a result of an opinion given the state game commission by Deputy Attorney General Cunningham. At their meeting on Tuesday they told several of the claimants that they did not feel like paying what they considered a raise rather than a county debt. Unless they take other action Adams County's Commissioners will continue making payment unless a test case is made.

ARRESTED

Biglerville Man is in Jail on Several Charges.

Thomas Murray, of Biglerville, is in the Adams County jail charged with assault and battery, surety of the peace, and recklessly breaking windows. It is said that he engaged in an altercation with Rudolph Arnold in Biglerville on Thursday and that afterward he went to the Arnold home and broke several windows. The case was made by County Detective Wilson Hall, at a hearing before Squire Hill, Murray was held for Court.

SEVEN HOURS

Musical Show Pleases Large Audience in Walter's Theatre.

"Seven Hours in New York" drew a good house at Walter's Theatre Thursday night. The attraction has the same principals as last year with one or two exceptions and the show is as well cared for. The audience was enthusiastic in showing its approval of the tango and could have stood many encores. Given a larger and better chorus, "Seven Hours" would deserve big houses everywhere.

WERE MARRIED IN COURT HOUSE

Miss Boese, of Littlestown, is Married in Presence of Frederick County Court Officials, one of whom Believes a Charge.

If Miss Minnie A. Boese, of Littlestown, and Harvey J. Hull, of Hanover, who are now Mr. and Mrs. Hull, have a stormy married career, it will be because they did not heed the good advice given them immediately after their wedding in the Judges' Chambers at the Court House in Frederick Tuesday morning, says the Morning Post of that city.

"Those present" consisted of County Commissioner Frank Stevens, Court Crier Marion S. Moberly, Deputy Court Clerk Harry Chaplin, and Deputy Register of Wills Clerk Herbert S. Krah. These four acted as bridesmaids, ushers, and general attendants. The minister imported by the groom-to-be, Rev. Martin Swatzler, of Union Bridge, a friend of Mr. Hull.

Even in the privacy of the Judges' Chambers it was hard to get away from the atmosphere of legal procedure. The Rev. Mr. Swatzler prefaced the ceremony by seating himself in the chair behind the judicial desk, while the prospective bride and groom occupied the chairs in front of the desk. Then the minister arose and pronounced them man and wife.

Then the ring had been put on and the party were wondering what to do next, Mr. Moberly stepped forward, cleared his throat, and with unofficial self of a piece of fatherly advice:

"I was married myself a twenty-six years ago", said, Mr. Moberly, "and I've experienced in my time you all the happiness in the world. In the path of wedlock, you will find pitfalls and stumbling blocks, if you are wise, ful, you will be caught and entangled. Differences of opinion will arise, there may be quarrels. In these times of stress, be considerate, be tactful, be prevail. That is the best plan. I do it myself."

MAY RIDE ALONG

Rural Mail Carriers May Take Road Commissioners with them.

Hereafter road commissioners will be accorded the privilege of riding with rural carriers for inspection of roads, according to a ruling today.

"Postmasters at rural delivery offices are instructed to issue permits to supervisors or commissioners having direct charge of the roads over which rural delivery routes are in operation, to ride over the routes with rural carriers when such road officials are actually engaged in the performance of their official duties in connection with the inspection of the roads."

The new rule will be of great advantage especially to county superintendents of roads who will be able to perform many miles of their daily without going to the expense of horse or auto hire.

LONG WALK

Hiked All the Way from Lancaster to Gettysburg.

Sixteen members of the Lancaster Y. M. C. A. arrived in Gettysburg late Saturday afternoon after having hiked it, walked all the way from that city to this place. They had encountered bad roads and rough weather, but were pretty well tired out when they reached here. Several days were spent on the trip. The return home will be made by rail.

SURPRISE PARTY

Young People Entertained at the Home of Mr. Bream.

A very enjoyable surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Emma Tipton, of York Springs, Thursday evening. Those present were Bunnybi Gilbert, Ruth Gilbert, Treva Culliton, Margaret Wellner, Mrs. Emma Tipton, Katharine Wellner, Helen Geisinemer, Treva Wellner, Hilda Tipton, Elsie Potterf, Nellie Pittenturf, Ralph Geiselman, Glenn Tipton, Selmar Hess and Milton Tipton.

YOUNG DAUGHTER SHOOTS MOTHER

Thought Revolver Was not Loaded and Put Bullet into her Mother's Head. Believed to be Fatally Wounded. Arundtsville Tragedy.

Mrs. James Adams, of Beechersville, a small village near Arendtsville, was shot in the head by her 13 year old daughter Tuesday evening, receiving a wound that is all probability will prove fatal. She was in a serious condition when taken to the Harrisburg Hospital on Wednesday and reports since indicate that she cannot recover.

The shooting was entirely accidental, was done in a spirit of play and with a 32 calibre revolver which both thought was empty. Mrs. Adams and her daughter, Virgie, were in an up-stairs room about half past seven o'clock in the evening and had been playing together. One of them spied the revolver and, believing that it was not loaded, started pulling the trigger. There was no discharge and they pointed it at various objects in the room, always pulling the trigger and pretending to shoot.

Finally the daughter, a girl about 15 years old, turned the weapon on the mother, who was seated in a chair, and this time it did discharge, the bullet entering the head midway between the eyes. The girl gave a scream and ran to the side of her mother, who sank from the chair as she fell. She then ran quickly to the homes of Robert D. Fisher, Charles Weaver and Harvey Sanders, nearby, and called aloud for help.

When they arrived Mrs. Adams was lying unconscious on the floor. Both Drs. Fisher and Sanders were summoned on calls at the time and it was some time before a doctor could be secured. Dr. Fisher and Dr. J. C. Bell, of Merrimas later responded and at once took charge of the case, it is said. They rendered preliminary attention and then had the injured woman moved to the Harrisburg hospital in the morning. This was done in the hope that she could survive the operation.

Mrs. Adams' husband was not home in the house. Mr. Adams had gone to the Arendtsville Roller Mills on business and while there the fatal shooting was at one of the town stores. Mr. and Mrs. Adams have several other children and daughters who were quickly advised of the accident.

The daughter who did the shooting is prostrated over the and affair and people of that section generally are very much scarreled over it.

The Adams' family name was Mary Jane Baker and her home before her marriage was in Buchanan Valley. Mrs. Adams' parents, Samuel and Virgie Adams, at home; Harry Adams, Jacob Adams, Mrs. Lizzie Hoke and Mrs. Chambersburg; Samuel Adams, of Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Annie Adams, of Middletown; and Mary, married and living in Ohio.

NOT MUCH REVENUE

Mont Alto Town has $300 Tax to Collect.

Mont Alto's borough council, at a regular meeting, fixed the borough tax for the coming year at four mills on the dollar. The total sum of the tax assessors levied by the County Commissioners amounts to $75,000 and makes a heavier borden upon the Mont Alto people. The total sum of revenue from the borough tex will be about $300.

The council hopes to receive a sum of money—probably $100—from the State Highway Department, because of the extensive use made of Mont Alto's streets by autos for the White Pine Sanitarium and the State Forestery Department.

The question of a water supply is not yet determined. So far the Health Department has been able to get results by the use of Tarbunners spring. The spring is owned by the state sanitarium and it fears Mont Alto may injure the supply.

Light From Stars.

The light we receive from stars of the first magnitude, like Vega, is equal approximately to a forty-thousandmillionth part of that of the sun. It is computed that the total light received from the lesser stars is equal to that received from the first magnitudes, or a sixth part of that which is sent to us from the moon.

PENROSE HOLDS UP APPOINTMENT

Gettysburg Postmastership is Delayed until Inquiry Can be Held. Brodbeck Clears Local Candidate. The Investigation.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger on Tues. printed the following dispatch from Washington under date of March 30th:

Pending an investigation by the Senate Postoffice Committee, of which Senator Penrose is a member, the confirmation of postmasters nominated for Gettysburg and Delta, in York and Adams counties, has been held up. The committee was informed that the inquiry by the Postoffice Department was not satisfactory, and Senator Penrose has requested that the committee delay action until the proposed inquiry can be made.

Before the publication of the solicitation by representatives of the Senate Postoffice Committee of campaign subscriptions from prospective candidates, John H. Wheeler was named as Postmaster at Delta, and Charles S. Duncan was appointed for Gettysburg. No charges have been filed by Senator Penrose, who merely requests that the confirmation be delayed until his investigation is concluded.

Representative Brodbeck appeared before the committee last week and informed them that his men be confirmed. He said that neither man had paid any money to the campaign manager, but that Senator Penrose's secretary was informed of the situation and asked to see Mr. Representative Palmer, who promised a move to disapprove.

Representative Palmer forced Senator Penrose's hand to-day. The nomination of Charles S. Duncan, as postmaster at Bangor, in Northampton County, was withdrawn. Duncan was held up since March 6, at the request of Senator Penrose by the Senate Committee on Post Offices and Roads. It was urged at the request of Mr. Palmer, however, that Senator Penrose's secretary should not extend the delay as Palmer desires to name the postmaster in Pennsylvania.

As the result of his fight the Senate Postoffice Committee to-day confirmed the Gettysburg appointee. There are no charges made against Burke by Senator Penrose.

It is now said that it plain that Senator Penrose is not going to name postmasters in Pennsylvania. This is breaking up Democratic appointments and is a shameful backsliding Republican, said Mr. Palmer. "It is not doubt that the Senate committee will refuse to confirm any of the nominations made except much longer in the York and Adams county cases."

Mr. Palmer said that senatorial courtesy might be extended to a Senator who was from a State which did not be extended to a man who was away outside of his State. Continued. There will be a clash between Palmer and Penrose over the Pennsylvania postups. Ualess Penrose releases the confirmations shortly Mr. Palmer will appear before the committee in behalf of the York and Adams County applications.

A report was brought here from York to-day that the scandal exposed by the Public Ledger had merely scratched the surface.

TO REMOVE INMATES

Old Folks' Home is Soon to be Moved.

With the completion of the Colestock Old Folks' Home building, which Abbott's streets in the borough of Mount Joy, Lancaster county, will be moved to the United Brethren Old People's Home, Huntingdon, Pa., where the inmates and the inmates transferred to the Huntingdon Home will attend the church, for old people, by the Rev. FATHER KOHL TAKEN BY DEATH

Rector at Conewago Chapel Dies after an Illness of Several Months. Was Widely Known. Civil War Veteran Dies at Conlltown.

The Rev. Germanus Kohl, aged 59 years, rector at Conewago Chapel died Tuesday night at Elgin Grove, following an illness of seven weeks.

Father Kohl's death was due to an illness which started from a cold contracted early in November and developed into tuberculosis of the kidneys.

The Rev. Germanus Kohl was born March 27, 1855, in Swiss country. His father, the late Samuel Kohl, was born at Hayreck, Berks county, and his forefathers came to this country in 1774.

After teaching in the public schools in Berks county for three years Germanus Kohl entered Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, graduating in 1885. Two years later Germanus Kohl received the degree of master of arts and on August 22, 1887, he was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop O'Hara, of Scranton.

The first mission of the Rev. Father Kohl was Chambersburg, where he was assistant to the Rev. John J. Reilly for fourteen months. In 1889 he was appointed pastor of St. Mary's Church at Bear Gap, where he remained remaining twenty-seven months, when he was appointed to Conewago Chapel.

On May 6, 1895, the late Bishop Thomas McGovern appointed Father Kohl rector of St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral, Harrisburg. Father Kohl was made one of the diocesan board of consultors and he held this office until 1904, when he resigned from St. Patrick's Pro-Cathedral by the Rev. Mr. M. Hassett, now Monsignor Hassett. The Rev. Father Kohl then went to Littlestown, where he was pastor until 1910. On that date he returned to Elgin Grove to succeed the Rev. Eugene Halfhermeyer, as rector at Conewago Chapel.

Rev. Father Kohl is survived by one brother, Samuel Kohl, of Philadelphia, three sisters, Mother Genevieve, of the Sisters of St. Francis, Philadelphia; Mrs. Thomas McCarty, of Philadelphia; and Mrs. George Kuhns, of Bally, Berks county.

FUNERAL NOTICE

The funeral of Jacob Smith, who died early on Wednesday morning at the home of Jacob Hawitt, between Gettysburg and Bonneauville, will be held from the Hawitt home at 10 o'clock Friday morning. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery, Gettysburg.

BREWER—VAN CLEVE

Miss Van Cleve and Mr. Brewer Married Wednesday.

Miss Elizabeth Van Cleve, of Shinbrock, Iowa, and Mr. Frederick Brewer, of El Paso, Illinois, were married on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Robert Hill, Centre Square. The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine and carried bride's roses. Rev. Franklin E. Taylor used the ring ceremony. The bride has visited here frequently and has a number of friends in Gettysburg. Mr. and Mrs. Brewer left at 2:36 over the Western Maryland for their wedding trip.

NORI HAS ALSO BEEN SUSPENDED

Further Development at Carlisle School Results in Suspension of Clark who is Said to have Admitted Destroying Papers.

Secret Nori, chief clerk of the Indian School at Carlisle, was made a confession last week declaring that he had destroyed evidence of misuse of money at the navigation of Rawson Friedman, suspended superintendent of the school, was also suspended Wednesday by Cato Sells Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

His suspension resulted from the transmission of his confession and evidence taken by the special commissioner headed by Senator Robinson. It is announced that this evidence shows Nori culpable and there is a doubt in the minds of officials whether the confession has a great deal of truth in it.

In ordering his suspension Commissioner Sells ordered a hearing. This hearing will bring to a focus the financial transactions at Carlisle in which Nori implicated the suspended superintendent. Such a procedure will take the case against Nori out of the courts of Pennsylvania and transfer it to the Federal authorities. Hence Friedman will be subpoened to appear and defend himself and the results of the investigation will probably decide the case not only against Nori but Friedman as well.

The opinion prevails that the suspension of Nori, Superintendent Friedman and Bandmaster Sandfor who was suspended a month ago will be eliminated from the case.

Developments also indicate that the investigation started by the government officials are determined to make those responsible for the misuse of funds pay in full.

FOR GREATER HANOVER

Movement Launched at Meeting of Borough Council.

A movement for a greater Hanover was launched at a meeting of the borough council, held Monday night, when Councilman Bender advocated the annexation of surrounding communities. Councilman Bender showed to council how the citizens of Hanover were keeping up a fire department at the cost of over $5,000 a year, while living outside the borough were receiving the same protection without paying a cent. Others took the same stand and while action was deferred until the next regular meeting, it was the sentiment of each member that a few months should be given to the residents of the outlying districts to come into the borough or fire protection will be withheld. As a result of suspension of council, they are now determined that unless the residents of these come into the borough, the borough will not furnish the fire protection. Both sides promise to be the part most directly referred to, while Penrose, Mills, Grangeville, Bonneauville and Abbottstown street extended were also mentioned. Should the borough limits been so determined as at this time and Mr. Bender stated "If we wish to be fair to the outside residents" if we are looking after their interests we cannot help but be benefited in their behalf. Fire companies are exclusive purposes a town or city and the outside districts must assist in keeping these companies or give up their protection.

MATCHMAKING IN INDIA

One Scheme That Gave a Matrimony the Surprise of His Life.

Almost every one who has visited India in Bindoo work in India knows that one very important function of the missionary is to play the part of match-maker to his flock. But few if any have heard of the ennobling notion performed with the most startling matchmaker for their missionary. That does not mean, of course, that the letter written by a missionary who lives of Tutu ports, reads as follows:

On New Year's day, 1911, as I was seated in my little mud cottage at Tuticorin a number of people entered the veranda and were ushered by my servants my room, bearing trays of flowers, fruits, raisins and sugar. Others they placed at my feet. Then appeared who desire to gain the hearing of a preacher. After all the presents had been spread out I was observed and I had delivered to me a letter from the Rev. Appointing Brother Gnana Prakasam, a presidiner Tinnelly Mission, inviting me festive in Tondi on address to which the others gave earnest attention. It ran like this:

"Reverend Sir—You have now for nearly two years bestowed great care and labor upon the spiritual welfare and spiritual welfare and stirring for the benefit of our converts in such a manner that you have greatly imputed your own piety and loyalty, and we feel that you need some one to care for you, since you have no one to care for you. We feel that your zeal in our interest duty deserves our praise of our and services. Therefore, with profound humility and sincere respect, we venture to request you to marry a good woman, with whom both care for you and help us."

This was naturally a confusing thing to happen, but I was bound to respond to such a request. I read, and when the agitation died away I rose and answered with considerable effect:

"Your affectionate request for my welfare is overwhelming that I have, for words in which to express my appreciation," and so on, and I thanked them from the exertion. But the novelty of the situation was startling. I thought, in turning to one of the elders, I asked if they had any lady member possible to send to me who would be willing to become my helpmeet and assist me in my responsibilities they had outlined. Immediately Miss Wright was summoned. But, "Sahib," said I, "I don't believe she would have me." "Then second in line," the matchmaker with a vengeance. What a high handed act, to be sure! To order their pastor to marry, and then to choose the girl herself! Well, I was in for it and I will come. We have already seen her and told her she would be a good wife," said Brother Ingleson.

So it was settled. I may add that my wife and I have reason to promote highly of the Indian method of family making, but it should be combined with the modern method of courting, as in our case, to secure the best results.—Exchange.

Circulation at the Blood

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in the body like lower and the main was possessed by Aristotle and other Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the ancient and modern writers of the races. In fact, even the village naturists know of new movement. But no one not even the wisest of men, had any conception of the true character of it, turning to its source—a revolution in the true sense of the word. It was the function of the heart as the motive power of the movement of the blood. It until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1628

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

USES FOR ORANGE PEEL.

It would be more than economical and strengthen the digestive organs and invigorate the nerves, if it is fragrant peel of oranges served, dinks. It is not only more, but it is also best, for one may be used to flavor cakes, pies and sauces when the fruit is out of the market and is often used by druggists to conceal the unpleasant taste of some medicine.

A Delectable Confection.

Candied Orange Peel—Strip the orange in four parts and put in cold water in kettlespoonful of salt to a quart of water, and boil until tender. Then parboil in water, rinse in this water and drain. Then weigh the fruit. Add one pound of sugar and one pound of water to each pound of fruit. Cover and let for an hour. Then boil slowly. When nearly dry roll in sugar. Dry in a cool place.

Orange Fritters.

Orange Fritters—Beat very thin, rind and all, two large seedless oranges and one lemon. Add one cup of flour, one cup of sugar, one egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one teaspoonful of salt, and the yolk of one egg. Beat well together, and add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Drop by spoonfuls into hot lard and fry a light brown. Serve with a sauce made of one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, one cup of water, and the juice of one orange. Boil all together for five minutes.

Orange Fruit Cake.

Orange Fruit Cake—Beat together one cup of butter and two cups of sugar, one cupful of sweet milk grated rind and the juice of one orange and two whole eggs or four yolks. Sift in three cups of flour, with two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, and one teaspoonful of soda, and lastly add one cupful of raisins, one cupful of citron, and one cupful of currants, dredged with flour. Bake in a moderate oven.

Anna Thompson's QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Q.—If a grange owns its own hall and subsequently the charter is given up and disbanded, what is the disposition of the grange, as rituals, regalia, etc., belong? E. H.

A.—The personal property of a grange whose charter has been surrendered, such as rituals, regalia, books, secretaries, etc., are held in trust by the national master, subject to the order of the charter is revived. The real estate of a grange, such as a hall, is held in trust by the secretary of the grange, and if the grange has been disbanded it is sold at public auction, and the proceeds are equally divided between the state and the members of the grange in good standing. If the grange has been fined, the state grange has no right to the property, but the stockholders may further than to see that the provisions of the law are carried out. Ed.

Q.—Are any of the founders of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry living, and, if so, what are their names and residences? W. H. D.

FARM WORK IN WINTER.

The Blind Bridle is useful long enough and strong enough for visiting around in winter weather. Then the Fringe Nose Guard is to fend work that will be worth a little and will be the right thing most days. Of course there is the Breast Collar. But farmers and farmer plans to get most of the wood cut and dry some more. Very deep snow makes hauling the wood home or to market sometimes out of the question for a long time. During extreme blinds of weather there is little outdoor work to be done. Sometimes a determined man catches a bit of drifting and in winter. Spring land does not get in working order. Tools can be sorted almost any time, but a blind storm will fill the drains in winter is a bewel a deed. The same applies to the repair stone work around the build ings. There are fruit and vine stables to pick over and grade, flours, bowls, pokes, fruces, seeds and pots to be repaired, while working and planning to be done inside, wagons and tools to need and put in working order. Tools, knives and cutters need to be ground, root house and work stores to be put in order, fruit to be made and packed, digits for bed and sadie, tree-plant into trees and drug roots from the surface of the fields.

BOYS' PIG CLUB.

A New Organization Started by the Department of Agriculture.

The department of agriculture has the Boys' Corn club and the Girls' canning club and now comes the Boys' Pig club, started recently in the south for the purpose of increasing the supply of pork and encouraging good breeding of hogs. The pig clubs have been organized in Alabama and Louisiana, and a club in Mississippi has been started in Georgia. It is the purpose of the officials of the department to organize clubs in every southern state.

The idea of the organization started with the forsmeer co-operative demonstration and has been carried on with the co-operation of the eminent business leaders in the interest of agricultural industry. The organization is all about of the Boys' Corn club, which has as a organization in every southern state and which has been the means of producing such bewilding yields of corn. The Pig club when thoroughly organized will be co-operated, working hand in hand with the Corn club. The boys of the latter will endorse the rules and the boys of the newly organized association will be one to the other that they are produced to eat the corn.

In connection with the organization of the Pig club the department unites the following statement:

It is the purpose of the department to have every member of the club encourage not only an increased production of the better breeds, but a better breed of pigs than is being raised at present. It is another purpose the officials of the department are engaged in—one that is aimed at the high cost of living.

The production of pork is not keeping pace with the increased population, and something must be done to harmonize these two elements. If each member of the club would buy will be growing. It is expected, all the time—will use it for breeding purposes and better pig is produced each year, than a large part of the boys' time is spending the ever growing chasm between pork production and increased population.

A leg, B, is made for the brake bar A and drops down four or six inches with a hole in its lower end, to which is bolted the bar E, which in turn is bolted to the shoe D. By opening forward the lever C the shoe F is lowered below the runner and strikes it in the snow or ground, thus acting as a brake.

SCORPION STINGS.

They Kill Thousands of Persons Yearly in Mexico.

QUICK WORK OF THE POISON.

The Venom of the Deadly Bacoan Unless Prompt Treatment Follows Its Bite, Will End the Life of the Victim. In Twelve or Fourteen Hours.

Four thousand persons are reported to die each year in Mexico from the effects of scorpion bites.

There are several varieties of scorpions in Mexico, some of them armed fairly venomous and others little feared. In the neighborhood of Tepic the vicinity of Guadalajara a few inches long. It is little known about the more northern state of Sonora. It is one of the most venomous creatures in the world.

In the capital city of Durango complains are perhaps more plentiful and more dangerous than anywhere else in the republic. Here the climate is hot and torrid—it is in the "tierra caliente" zone—and scorpions by more than 150,000 scorpions are killed each year, with no appreciable effect on their numbers.

A scorpion resembles a diminutive lobster. Nor a specimens are eight inches long, though the average seldom is from two to four inches. The chief and most formidable weapon with which the scorpion crushes its prey after death is the venom of its sting.

The body of a scorpion consists of several separate joints, the last of which or more narrowing down to form the tail, which is made up of several of the body and terminates in the sting. This is hollowing and curved, like a sharp spine containing two little openings, which connect with the venom gland within the shell of the last segment. To use its weapon the scorpion the tail a mild looking motion forward in advance of the head and finally administers a hypodermic injection of venom or rather liquid poison. It usually strikes repeatedly when it hits its victim.

In other scorpions vary according to environment, the effect of the poisonous or transformed will assume a brown or yellowish color. The most venomous scorpions live in the cracks of the sandstone formations in the dry districts of the adobe huts and in the cracks in the adobe walls of the houses. They live upon spiders and other sight insects. Their bite is painful, and a scorpion may be observed under a microscope to inject the poison into a animals or human beings do.

The poison is carried into the nerves and the supports immersed in can be preserved for months and even years and reproduce too rapidly—the breeding season seems to be in August in the case of the kind—the young receives child birth from the mother that no destructive citizen is biting there.

Ordinarily a healthy man or woman never consult suicide by attacking with the sting of a scorpion. Death is in fact, they seem immune to their own venom. Even the most violent torments will battle to death if continued for a few hours, but others recover sooner or later. Children and persons of weak constitutions are the ones who are likely to die.

Fortunately unconsciousness does not always follow the scorpion sting, nor suffer the tortures of dying from hydrophobia. The average person suffers for a scorpion sting to cause death is twelve or fourteen hours.

The treatment of scorpion sting consists of a free use of whisky, which promote copious bleeding that wipes out some of the poison. Ammonia is also to be used an hour or more. Silma water—boiling water—is also said to be a possible stimulant, alcohol—are also necessary.

In villages where physicians are scarce all sorts of remedies are used. The "panthuanos" kinsmen, self-constituted medicine men, and their remedies are said to be drawn from the northwestern sierras.

Difficulties may surround our path but if we are determined to do our best we solves they may generally be overcome.—Jowett.

Farm and Garden

STORING WINTER VEGETABLES

Different Vegetables Should Be Treated in Different Ways.

Enough vegetables in the fall go to waste from the storage farm garden to supply the table during the entire winter. The task of storing is not difficult if one has a knowledge of the conditions best suited to preserve and is willing to perform a small amount of labor.

A dry, well aired, frost proof room, or cellar, is needed for the part of the year. The most favorable temperature is 32 degrees Fahrenheit. Celery, cabbage and sweet potatoes should be stored in a slightly warmer room. Ventilators should be adjusted on which to close the doors or windows. This avoids the dangers of overheating, excess moisture and prevents decay. All vegetables should be gathered before frost, sorted and thoroughly dried before packing. For long storage preserve those of most perfect formation and firm texture. Each root or other should be placed by itself, not apart in succeeding layers with clean, dry sand. In packing roots the sand or care should be taken each time to recover any that may be exposed. The earth for packing should be clean and dry and should be collected in dry

A VARIETY OF WINTER VEGETABLES.

Summer season rather than after the first frosts. Carrots, sweet potatoes, beets, turnips, parsnips, cabbage, celery, salsify and horseradish are all to this method.

Potatoes have been perfect in form, free from injurious should be treated for themselves. Those to be stored for seed barrels or boxes with little or no moisture. Those for table use should be carefully wrapped in paper, packed in sand or dry earth and kept in a cool, dry place, where they will not sprout. They should be covered to keep out the light. Onions may be stored with the potatoes and placed in the coolest part of the cellar. Cabbage may be stored in the cellar or will keep for a short time if stored in a cool, dry room. Cauliflower must be stored with the roots attached and should be removed. Each head should be wrapped in paper. Celery may be stored outdoors in the fall by placing the roots closely together in rows and covering with boards, with the tops pointing downward a few inches apart. Pack and store the same as cabbage.

Parsnips, salsify and beets are allowed to remain in the ground all winter. They should be covered in the fall with coarse manure to keep the earth from freezing. They may be stored in what Dr. Whitman accomplished.

HAS BEST WISHES

New Methodist Minister well Liked in Clearfield.

The Clearfield "Daily Public Spirit" says: "Rev. H. A. Ogden, the new pastor of the Eleventh street Methodist church for the past two years, has been appointed to the pastorate of the Gettysburg Methodist church. Mr. Ogden began his work during the two years he was among us. He is an able preacher and his congregation has greatly endeared himself to the hearts of his people. He leaves here with the best wishes of everybody. We express it as our earnest wish that he may have a long and successful pastorate and that he will continue to be a blessing to mankind in the future as he has been in the past."

CHILD WILL SEE AFTER OPERATION

Little Child of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kane Recovering Nicely from Grafting of Pig's Cornea. Was Remarkable Operation.

Six months old David Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kane, of Carlisle street, will see as well as all other children according to the predictions of Dr. Whitman who performed the operation of a pig's eye was grafted to the child's eye which is an exact to cure the baby of the total blindness in which it was born.

The operation made Sunday afternoon gave every indication of a successful issue to the remarkable operation which was performed last Monday by Dr. Floyd B. Whitman, one of the youngest practicing surgeons in Baltimore, who is now a visiting physician at the Baltimore Ear and Throat Hospital.

It is practically impossible to make a satisfactory test of an infant's eye. A candle was lighted in the dark room and a thorough examination was carried around. The child seemed to center its gaze upon the candle as the pig's cornea was grafted. Mrs. Agnes Kane, mother of the child, said that she has seen her son, when the bandage was removed from the optic, following the movements of the hands. In addition, the eye is perfect-ly clear, which is the only physical evidence that can be had that the child can see now.

It was the confident belief of the surgeons at the hospital Sunday afternoon that the operation is a success, a complete success. Dr. Whitman was asked for his opinion, but he declined to speak of the operation for publication. He did say, however, that all appearances so far are in favor of the belief that the operation has been successful, but, he added, there is a probability that the cornea may become cloudy at any time within two weeks.

Dr. Whitman is a modest young man. In fact, it is due to this modesty that the world has not learned more in connection with the published reports of the remarkable work he has been doing.

Repeated attempts to interview him have been made, but he has declined and will maintain silence until after every doubt of the success of the operation has been removed. He has given out definite information, in fact, which can be had only from him, except that a child is that which is obtained from Dr. Whitman's friend.

Although it is the first of its kind to be successful, the operation performed by Dr. Whitman is not without parallel difficulties and in a peculiarly difficult manner.

The outer layer of the cornea of the child's eye was not affected by the disease from which it was suffering. It was the inner layers that had become opaque, thereby causing the blind-ness. Dr. Whitman's aim to preserve the outer layer and substitute the cornea of the pig for the inner layers. There fore, it was necessary to undermine the outer layer without destroying the delicate tissue, or cause it to be closed, otherwise the child would remain blind.

HAS BEEN PROMOTED

Chas. Clearfield Has Been Made Assistant Cashier.

Charles E. Wolfe, assistant cashier of the Adams County Threshermen's and Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company, of Mt. Pleasant township, died at his home in that city. The arrest was made by the police on Wolfe, who is charged with being insane, stepped from a Hanover trolley car. Wolfe has been in impaired health for several months and it is claimed that his mind became affected recently. Wolfe was held in the insane ward of the York county almshouse yesterday morning, pending his commitment to the county insane asylum.

ADAMS COUNTY HAVE ENLARGED THRESHERMEN

Meet and Form Organization for Mutual Protection and to Protest against Provisions of Recently Enacted Measure.

To protect themselves against the provisions of the recently enacted law regulating traction engines, threshermen and farmers of Adams County met in the Court House in Gettysburg yesterday afternoon and formed an association.

H. B. Slaughter was elected president; Edward Strasbaugh, vice president; Leonard Collins, secretary; and J. Daniel Eichelberger, treasurer. The following executive board was appointed: James Young, Frank Coulson, L. J. Smith, George Bushey, and J. C. Baumgardner, from this county, and C. A. Rodgers, representing the Frick Company, of Waynesboro; and John W. Lapsley, representing the Eckert-son-Buntingham Company of the same place.

The movement, which is assuming state-wide proportions, is being pushed by the manufacturers of threshing machines and traction engines, by the threshermen throughout the state, and by the farmers who claim that an enormous increase will be made in the cost of threshing to be increased from the present rate of two to three cents a bushel, and in the case of timbel.

James Winter, of Harrisburg, a state organizer, addressed Friday's meeting, urging the farmers present. Adams Countians became members of the Adams County Threshermen's and Farmers' Mutual Protective Association. Twenty five other residents of this county joined the association yesterday in York County and a number of them are expected to transfer their membership to the local society.

The threshermen do not object, it is said, to paying the license required by the act in question but they do object to signing a bond which would compel damage their machines may do roads or bridges.

"This, said Mr. Winter, "makes you an insurance company for the State of Pennsylvania. We are willing to recommend in their money for license without the pledge regarding the repair of damage.

It is planned to join in the protection of our interests in every way with the object of suit on account of the law, and to bring about by legislation the arousing of public sentiment concerning the new law will do much toward the solution of the main question of the State legislature.

PLAYGROUND IDEAS

William B. Kurtz, Boro of Gettysburg's Playground. Decides on a Number of Things for its Improvement. Plan for Maintenance.

Extensive developments of the new Kurtz Playground were announced Monday evening by William B. Kurtz, of Philadelphia, donor of the forty acre tract of ground, who was here to present the work which is completed and to make further plans.

Mr. Kurtz has decided definitely on the construction of a dam which will provide ample swimming, bathing and boating facilities. The location of the dam will be from five to six feet in height and the water will extend back for a distance of from 250 to 300 feet. In the rear of the dam proper small dams will be provided, with pebble bottoms, for the little tots to enjoy wading. The dam itself will provide skating for the winter months.

It was decided also to locate the young boys' football grounds in the southwestern corner of the tract. The recently graded portion will be used, and little will have to be done in addition to prepare the grounds.

Some grading will have to be done on other portions of the grounds to allow the erection of a number of swings and see-saw boards, and the leveling of numerous other such appliances for outdoor gymnastics.

The tennis courts, the quoit courts and the croquet grounds will require several weeks' work in the spring, ready for many months of enjoyment before long. The base ball grounds will be used by the Y. M. C. A. league this spring.

Mr. Kurtz expressed himself Monday as highly gratified with the work already completed. He found the lodge and pavilion in the process of being finished by the latter part of April. Satisfactory progress will be made in all other parts of the playground. Mr. Kurtz complimented Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson, representing the firm of Day and Kinsloe, who were the architects for the building.

Out of Town Superintendent Accompanies Mr. Kurtz Here.

Mr. Kurtz will appoint a Philadelphia man superintendent of the grounds and buildings. In his job he secure an expert in various games and the care of grounds. The Y. M. C. A. league this season, will be able not only to care for the conduct of games but will likewise given the house but will also be thoroughly versed in the matter of keeping the house and grounds clean.

Mr. Kurtz's plan of providing for the maintenance of the playground park is now made public.

He will provide at present at a meeting of the men of town to ask their cooperation in providing for the upkeep of the grounds, and the payment of the regular annual expenses. It is also his plan to have a fund for children using it pay regular dues, no matter the smallness of the contribution may be. Mr. Kurtz believes that if they pay some money into the treasury they will use it more carefully in the grounds and will take better care of them in addition to having more pleasure from their play there. The men who also oblige themselves to annual payments will be given free admission to all public contests and other performances held on the grounds.

MUST BUILD AT ONCE

Directors of York Almshouse Must Go Ahead with Work.

The Attorney General's Department on Monday gave an opinion to Brumbaugh Commissioners and the State Board of Charities, to the effect that the Legislature did not give discretion to the Board of Poor Directors of York county, informing them that it was their duty to proceed to the erection of a new almshouse and not let the work to the County Commissioners. The York almshouse has been condemned by numerous boards as unsanitary and not fit for the care of patients. A number of deaths have occurred, of contecting laws, as to who should build a new almshouse, and the directors will now have to do the work.

SECURED MONEY AND VALUABLES

Party of Several Young Men Fleece Boarding House People by Exchanging Rooms and Then Taking Various Articles and Decamping.

Several boarding and lodging house proprietors in Littlestown are mourning the loss of bed and other valuables as the result of operations carried on by several strange young men who visited the town.

They were well dressed fellows and visited various homes where they engaged lodging, saying that their luggage would arrive on the next train but in the meantime asked to be shown to their rooms as they wished to change shirts. The request having been complied with, and the landlady having returned down stairs, they took up their worn and all valuables; in addition to their change.

On going down stairs, it is said, they asked the amount of some bill, pieces place and when they departed left to return no more.

At one place the man after being shown to his room called down and asked if there was a Y. M. C. A. town. When the lady went up stairs after the man was gone, she found the bureau drawers had been ransacked and $8 in a child's bank missing.

The Young idea.

A high school freshman, asked to recite on the life of Alexander the Great, extemporized as follows: "Alexander was a great general; once upon a time when he had taken too much wine he died and left his best friend and killed him. Alexander was very much grieved, and did everything he could to help bury his friend."

Baseball Merely an Infant.

When we consider that cricket was played in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and that golf was very popular when Catherine de Medici was in the height of her power, baseball is seen to be in infancy. Football was popular with the Druids and Romans, but essentially played it to much the same form as to be played today.

Lamb Walked Long for Business.

The late Jacob Lamb, father of the genius was an unduly accidental as well as frugal man. He walked when he was necessary for him to take a street ship and support the family. He wrote home for the papers and received them by the usual mechanism of 12 cents apiece. Many experiments were made to induce him to economize among them a farce which was biased on the fact that he lived right. It was not until he was forty-five years of age that the first "Essay at Elia" appeared.

NEWS AT COLLEGE

Founders' Day. Tennis Games. Two Players on State Team.

April 7th will be observed as Founders' Day at Gettysburg college and in the evening at 8 o'clock Dr. Granville Stanley Hall will speak upon the Bess Chapel telling the history of the institution.

An ambitious tennis schedule has been announced. It includes a match with Dickinson here on April 8. All the other contests will be held away from home. The base ball team has the following schools, Mercersburg Academy, Tome Institute, Georgetown University, Catholic University, Lehigh, Swarthmore, Johns Hopkins, Lebanon Valley and Dickinson.

Two Gettysburg players are included on the all-State basketball basket ball team picked by the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin which says: "The best team from the ranks of the games would be Bonfer, of Albright; Hoffman, of Susquehanna; and McKenzie, of Swarthmore, forwards; Jenkins, of Penn State, and Bender, of Gettysburg, and Greene, of Penn State, guards. Bonfer must be considered the star of the quintet. He scored 61 field goals and his opponents registered 6. Hoffman scored 27 field goals in four games and his opponents registered 4. Jenkins scored 16 field goals in six games and his opponents tallied twice. Price, of Lebanon Valley, was a star at a guard and part at forward and his record includes 15 field goals. Greene, Captain of Lehigh, was not strong enough at guard to beat out either Bailey, of Swarthmore, or Greene of State. W. and J. and University of Pittsburgh changed players so often that they didn't have any one playing enough games to be considered. Bailey played the steadiest during the entire season. Albright was mainly Bonfer."

FEAR 150 DIED WHEN S P SANK

Sealing Steamer Goes Down in a Blizzard.

ANOTHER SHIP IS MISSING

Many Men Die on Ice Floes and the Few Who Survived Are Picked Up. Many Were Dying When Saved.

St. Johns, N. F., April 3. The sealing steamer Newfoundland has been reported in the ice floes south of Belle Isle Strait and the greater part or her crew of 150 men are believed to have perished.

Steamers in the vicinity picked up several survivors on the ice floes and who had survived on the ice floes on which they carried when their vessel went down.

Fifty of the crew of the steamer have been accounted for in this manner. Most of the survivors were dead when discovered and several of the others were dying.

The authorities of those found believe their condition for forty-eight hours they were adrift on ice floes with a furious blizzard swept over them.

Great alarm is also felt for the sealing steamer Southern Cross, which is also believed to have been caught in the ice. The first reports received in St. Johns said that it was a part of the crew of the Southern Cross that had been picked up and that they were being brought into port by the Newfoundland. There were 173 men on board the Southern Cross.

The storm that has raged over Newfoundland for three days continues unabated and the telegraph service to points along the coast has suffered. Meager reports relayed from one vessel to another by wireless and more or less confused states that of the crew of the Newfoundland 120 men were still on the ice floes. It is possible the number of the missing may be on the ice were those of the crew of the Southern Cross.

One report says that the men who left the ice floes were rescued entirely by the mooring ice fields in different directions. The men, bowing a decided aloof shore, and there was a rifling sweep over the ice floes in order it would be unable to find their way in any direction.

They had little food when they left the ship and it was exhausted before rescue. Not tents or other shelter many succumbed to the cold and exposure. It is feared that few will survive. Vessels are now out of St. Johns and Harbor Grace among the ice floes.

According to a dispatch from the Fleetlet, the rescued man held out on hope for the safety of their comrades. They said a blizzard had been raging for thirty-six hours after the steamer was crushed and there was little possibility of any one surviving.

The steamer was crushed on Tuesday, when three-quarters of the crew were on the ice, and when her fires were not smothered. Up and there were more than eight men on board.

All of those who were aboard the ship left her believed to have put her lifeboat within a few hours, as they had some of the survivors that preserved the lives of a few of the sailors who were on the vessel when the ice broke disaster occurred. They were able to reach a few miles away and blankets before the vessel sank. Do-like this, most of that portion of the crew was perished.

TWELVE RESERVE BANKS NAMED

Were Chosen From a List of Four Hundred Thirty-seven Cities.

TWELVE DISTRICTS OUTLINED

Each Reserve Bank Must Subscribe a Minimum of $4,000,000 Capital in Banks.

Washington, April 3 — The twelve districts and twelve reserve cities in the federal reserve banking system were announced by the new currency banking committee. This is the first formal step to be taken in the organization of the new banking system.

The cities that are to have federal reserve banks are New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Va., Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Dallas, San Francisco and Kansas City.

Twelve districts are outlined, with these cities as financial centers. In no case has a delegate not less than one district shall subscribe to a minimum of five-tenths of capital in the reserve bank.

The reserve cities were chosen from a list of thirty-seven which originally had been considered with keen rivalry. The organization committee consists of secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Comptroller of the Currency Williams, were authorized by law to select cities, to right now there is no power to refuse to be known as federal reserve cities, as the law requires the maximum number be used.

The eastern districts are as follows:

District No. 1—The New England district, comprising Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Boston is designated as the location of the federal reserve bank.

District No. 2—The New York district, York, with New York city as the location of the federal reserve bank.

District No. 3—New Jersey and Delaware, with Philadelphia designated as the location of the western business district of Philadelphia.

District No. 4—The Cleveland district, comprising Ohio, Kentucky, Western Pennsylvania lying west of districts Nos. 2 and 3, and the northern panhandle of West Virginia. Cleveland is designated as the location of the federal reserve bank in Richmond, Va.

CONGRESS WILL END IN JUNE

Fifteen Months Session, With No Curtailment in Sight.

Washington, April 3.—When asked whether the long session of congress, which began December would necessitate a curtailment of the legislative program of the democratic majority, Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, said: "I do not think so. I do not see any reason why we should not be able to get through the session by the end of June."

The president said he believed enough progress had been made already to justify the hope that trust questions, including the Sherman law, will be disposed of at the present session.

Results of congress are anxious to make the session as short as possible before the action of short as possible before the action of short as possible before the action of

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION.

How the Pulmotor Is Used to Restore Normal Breathing.

The pulmotor is an automatic resuscitation apparatus which produces a flow of breathing and enables by a single motion the rarities of respiration adjusted for self-measuring to any dimensions at the time, and thus the extraordinary result is produced of an ordinary lifeless body beginning to breathe exactly the same as the pulmotor is placed in connection with it. The pulmotor is applied to the face of the respiratory organs and the mask of the nose and mouth and then it begins to force and give the next and issues a change to fulfil.

The pulmotor is used on persons overcome by accident, by which the patient is drowned or in other cases where the breathing of the patient has been stopped impaired or stopped entirely and where there still remains a visible breathing motion pulmotor passes is an oxygen or other suitable gas into the patient's lungs a 50 per cent mixture of air and oxygen is the pulmotor for ordinary situations. It has a great advantage over artificial respiration by hand in that it forces a certain quantity of oxygenated air into the lungs that it is possible to accomplish by artificial respiration, and the work can be kept up longer. Two Cases in One or Circumstantial Evidence

By SARAH BARNES

Judge Spooner of the criminal court was disposing justice to the unfortunates who were to appear over the telephone that he come home immediately. He hung up the receiver and in very little of Little, Greek, authentication. He was accustomed to young men who go to dinner for fun, wake up one morning and have found himself in possession of a diploma.

But determined to do some more thinking about it. He was a married woman later, but before he left the telephone booth he had called up Mrs. Spooner and told her that he would be late. Then he went to the office and settled down with him, and one little man who crowded that we would be back.

Ten minutes after his departure Bob was in India. He was dining one evening with a party of American and British officers when the subject of the native was brought up. Bob with the bodies of their husbands was mentioned.

"That's stopped now," said a British officer. "It is a crime with the natives to burn widows."

Bob, who was an Indian servant, "there will be a native tomorrow morning at sunrise." The young widow of the Rajah of Pingore was to be burned with her husband."

Bob, who was always questioned, said that the prince was a very old man, and that the widow, who was his fifth, was twelve years old. She was raw from Bombay. Her husband had been married, but as there was no English ceremony in the case Bob said a marriage could be done to prevent this native custom. Bob's friend, Bradley, proposed that the party rescue the young widow from the flames. The Englishmen were hard to serve at first, but eventually Bob got them to fall in with his scheme. The party drove from the dinner to the house of the Rajah's widow to the place where the pyre had been built. It was guarded by a few of the guru was the body of the old prince. Bob's servant was with them. They arrived at the pyre and the guards, who were in the interest of the widow, were bribed to leave. There was no resistance to the rescue, and by the time the party left the pyre to the room, the widow was in a wheelbarrow. With a veil over her head and face, she looked like a dead woman, and in these a spade broke the wood of the pyre. Then commenced the search for the body of the widow. The wooden platform being left supported by the burning logs, the search was to be moved at will.

The next morning there was a great din of the funeral procession approaching the pyre. The Englishmen, who had shaved heads uncovered, carrying torches, followed by a concourse of natives, bearing the body of the Rajah. In the midst was the young widow. The party of Englishmen had reached the ruins of her from a cabin in the wait, though they had not been seen by the natives. At the foot of the pyre the widow was assisted to the ground and received by the alien undergarments. To see the young thing in a European setting clothed her with a bewildered stare, then in the midst of the ceremony began to move stouter beams than the Englishmen had been prepared for. She took through the peepsights then dashed to the ground and ran to the platform of the pyre, where he stood ready. When the body of the widow was found the dawn and a cloud of smoke concealed the party. Bob's servant was given by a British officer at the peepsights. Remarkable coincidence, the widow was of the Indian body, receiving it in his arms as he fell. Bob and his party were all protected servants as well as the dancer, recognized and unceremoniously carried through the crowd to their conveyance.

It was not till night that the party reached Bombay. Here they separated, their servant. Bob Bradley something of the affair, but when they reached England the widow of the Prince of Pingore became the wife of Bradley.

On the arrival a few weeks later of the steamer Lincoln at New York Bradley's old friends, who had heard of his marriage with an Indian, were on the dock to greet him.

"A hundred yards of rice, please."

"I didn't lose the bet, which was that my wife would be black. She is deeper colored, Calcutta native." "I am happy that I am ready to pay." And he drove from his pocket a bundle of the finest quality of rice.

MAN CAUGHT IN CIRCULAR SAW

Clothing Wrapped around Sh aft Several Times. Is Saved when Weight Pulls Belt from the Pulley. Shudder Blade Broken.

Harvey O. Harbaugh, Highfield, is recovering from the effects of a serious accident, that only by the narrowest of margins escaped being fatal. As it was, he suffered severe injuries.

Mr. Harbaugh was sawing wood, with a circular saw, at the Blue Ridge Summit cottage of Mrs. Mary Bond, Littlestown, when he got too close to the shafting and his coat was caught by it.

Before Mr. Harbaugh realized that there was danger for him, his clothing was wrapped around the shaft and he was whirled about several times.

Onlookers were horrified for it appeared to them that the unfortunate man's life must be crushed out. Happily, however, the weight pulled the belt off the pulley and the revolutions of the shafting were stopped.

Ivan Brown, his assistant, and Harry Frock ran to the aid of their host and his clothing from the shafting with a pen knife.

Mr. Harbaugh dropped to the ground and it was then discovered that his shoulder was dislocated, that his right shoulder was pulled from its socket and that there was a hole in his back.

GIPSY IN FIRE

Gypsy Lad Badly Burned in Camp Fire in Hospital.

Arthur, five-year-old son of Reiner Catello, a leader of a band of gypsies which passed through Gettysburg and are now ten miles east of Graeffenburg, was badly burned Monday morning. Hospital sufferer greatly from burns.

The gypsy band consists of ten Italians and a little family. Monday they had a number of fires burning. Arthur fell into one of them and his clothing ignited. PROFITABLE FEEDING

Steers Make Substantial Gain and Profit Shown.

Wm. R. King, of near East Berlin, has sold his eight fat steers after feeding them 154 days. When he bought them they weighed 5900 pounds and last night 7,620 pounds, a gain of 353 pounds each. He also received an advance of $1 per cwt. The steers consumed 233 bushels of shelled corn.

HIGH SCHOOL WON

Prep Base Ball Players Met Defeat at Hands of High School.

The High School nine defeated the Gettysburg Academy team on the latter's field Tuesday afternoon by a score of seven to two. Batteries were, High School—Bushman and Smith; Prep, Gobs, Rehmeyer and Lampe.

MANY NEW HOMES WILL BE BUILT

Gettysburg Residents to Erect Fine New Dwelling Houses this Spring and Summer. Some will Improve Present Homes.

The steady and healthy expansion of Gettysburg is again shown this spring in the great demand for houses and fiats and in the building operations now in progress or soon to be commenced. A number of fine new homes are to be built in Gettysburg this summer and there are now practically no vacant houses in the town while flats are at a premium.

South Street which has been recently opened up for building purposes is to have another double brick house, Emory Plank has let the owner. There are two other houses on that street now and it promises soon to be one of the most popular sections of "Sleepy Hollow".

Several new houses are to go up in the North End of town this summer. Frank B. Peckman, who has been living for several years at the corner of Broadway and Musselburg Road is planning to put up a residence for his own occupancy on the south side of Broadway between Washington and Carlisle streets. John W. Brehm is also planning to build on his lot on the south side of Broadway between the homes of Edgar A. Crouse and Paul A. Martin.

George Stallsmith is planning to build a row of two double brick houses on Stratton street near Railroad street, improving greatly that portion of town and contributing materially to the other building operations in that part of Gettysburg.

Charles Sheads has started to build a brick house on Hanover street near Fourth street, and Harold Strickhouser is building a double brick house on York street near Fourth street, adding to the rapidly increasing number of new homes in the eastern end of town.

James Welkert recently completed his double house on York street and it is now occupied, Mr. Welkert himself residing in the one portion of it. Ernest Ziegler's new residence on North Washington street, near Chambersburg street, has been pushed right along and will before very long be ready for occupancy.

A number of other Gettysburg residents are planning to build but have not decided definitely whether or not they will put up their houses during the coming summer.

Remodeling will be done in a number of houses and at several business places improvements are under consideration to be announced later. Contractors expect to have their hands full all summer and when the fall comes a noticeable improvement in the appearance of Gettysburg may be expected.

Men who make a business of laying concrete pavements are also looking forward to busy days as soon as "the frost is out of the ground" and the town will take another step forward to old itself of its present undesirable reputation for bad sidewalks.

TOOK TESTS

Gettysburg Post Office Clerks Make High Records and Good Speed.

An examination in dispatching and delivering mail was held in the Gettysburg post office on Thursday by Chief Clerk Burkholder of Harrisburg. Two of the local clerks took the examination which is similar to that to which the railway post office clerks are subjected. Peter C. Stock had a record of 99.85 and a speed of thirty eight pieces a minute. Preston W. Hull made a record of 99.12 and a speed of thirty pieces a minute. Both to be very congratulated on their highly satisfactory showing.

Song of the Sands.

"At a camp in the northeastern corner of the picture the curious song of the sands' was heard," says, in the Geographical Journal, one who has been in the Libyan desert. "The sound began about 7:30 p. m. and continued at intervals until about midnight. The sound was very faint; in fact, two of the men were unable to hear it. These were two distinct sounds; the one the reverberation of the big drum, was difficult to determine the direction from which the sound came, but apparently it came from a place about a mile distant where the sand poured over a low scarp. The sound was a distinctly musical one, as opposed to a mere noise."

Grocery is Gaseous.

To do as well and be base, To do a good one without incurring danger is common enough. But it is the part of a good man to do good and noble things though at risk everything in doing them.—Plutarch.

Must Have New God of War.

"The heathen spirit of the teutons existed and more superstitions of the Chinese has since been come to the front in the revolution," says the North China Daily News. It happens that the god of war, to whom teutonic has been sold for generations back, is a deity that was adopted by the Manchu dynasty when they became rulers of China. As a matter of fact, he was the ancestral version of a great warrior of the third century who died a new personality has been set up in the part of the country a section of the followers of the revolutionary party has decided that it is necessary to have a different god of war to that which has presided over the military destinies of the Manchus, and it is learned that the canonization of another personality is supposed the old god is about to take place."

Demand Dainty Footgear.

"It is wonderful," said a New York woman who has been living abroad, "how much attention the Frenchwomen have come to pay of late to their footwear, their shoes and their stockings. The tight skirt after all has gotten responsible. When the shoes were concealed it did not matter of much what a Frenchwoman had on her feet, and the shoes were always long and pointed. The advent of the bobbin skirt made feet more in evidence and there that the French bootmakers had to take to making shoes shorter and with more regard to looks, as that now the Frenchwoman goes in for silk stockings and stunt shoes just as much as the American. She will be slat, however, upon having the top of a different color from the lower."

In Nigeria.

With Moron people, on the death of a chief, his son (or heir if he has no son) must provide a cow when he is led around the assembled guests by a laughing woman, who is dressed for the occasion. It is absolutely necessary that a cow should be obtained for the funeral—should the heir neglect to do so, the ghost of the deceased will cover give him any pleasure; she must be sold afterward; if not, she will die. Why the woman should have to be laughing is past comprehension, but that is the Moron custom, and after all it is quite a mistake to suppose that people must necessarily look glum on those occasions.

POULTRY MEN

White Leghorn Eggs, Indian Runner Duck Eggs, Black Oil Disinfectant, Bee-berry and Strawberry Plants.

Dear Sir:

We sell Black Oil Disinfectant and Eggs for Hatching. We have a Heavy Laying Strain of White Leghorns. They are great winter layers; in one pen of 250 hens we got three eggs per hen per day during January, 1912. Part of the strain is got new blood in, pure ducks; a setting or two will start you in winter layers. Why not feed the kind that pays? We will send you 12 eggs for $1 prepaid or 15 eggs for $1 if you come to the farm.

We also sell Indian Runner Duck Eggs for Hatching. This strain is composed of three different strains, which insures Good Hatches and Strong Ducks. They are good layers and true markings. 12 eggs for $1 prepaid, 15 eggs for $1.

If you desire anything more than we have said, will replace the setting for half the cost of the first.

We have prepared Black Oil Acid for disinfecting purposes and used it for several years and find it the best thing on the market, and we decided to give others the benefit of it. The fumes kill lice and kinds of disease germs; the heavy oil makes a lasting disinfectant. Use it on the coops or sprinkle on floors, or add coal oil and spray through cracks in coops. Will prevent roup, bronchitis, cures scratches, pigeon pox, etc. Prevents gapes and mop in pens. Since using it lice and disease never get ahead of us; it will do the same for you. Try it. Directions with can.

Price—Any per quart, 40c a half gallon, 60c a gallon, F. O. B. Littlestown, Pa.

We have thousands of Bee-berry and Strawberry Plants for sale, 25 per 100 prepaid, by parcel post or 40c at the farm. The kind that will fill your Dr'l full.
